

Transit Planner

Transportation planners gather, compile, and analyze data of transportation systems to further the track's benefits and lifespan. They also recommend transit improvements, based on economic, population and land-use factors.

Occupation and Sectors?

This is professional work in the Transportation and City Planning sectors

Education?

A bachelor's/Master's degree in urban and regional planning, geography and architecture, Plus a Membership in the Canadian Institute of Planners

Pay?

$60k to $114k, your pay will fluctuate depending on you experience and skill

More at Metrolinx.com